rate we are polluting our rivers and streams, fishing as an industry or as a sport will become extinct, Lake Erie is considered almost dead because waters are constantly being emptied into the water.

Lake Michigan and Lake Superior are also being threatened by pollution. Lake Baikio, the world's largest fresh water lake in remote Sibera, is beginning to experience the same problems.

Land pollution has become almost intolerable in some areas. Mountains of old cars and debris of all kinds is heaped upon acres of good land.

We cannot continue to pollute our land, water and air. If man is to survive in generations to come, we must do something NOW to alleviate this major problem and to remove these undesirable materials from our habitat.

Pollution

By: Miss Rosetta Berkley
Route 1, Pamplin, Va.

Pollution is devastating our environment. There is no such thing as clean air anymore because our factories send chemicals into the atmosphere. Automobiles release hydrocarbons and nitrogen oxide into the atmosphre. Radioactive particles escape from nuclear reactors, Jet planes also contribute to air pollution.

I am wondering how long we will have purified water to drink. In many areas, water is already too toxic for human consumption. Waste materials from industries, sewage, garbage, and useless materials from other sources are being emptied into our waters at an astronomical rate.

Pesticides are extremely harmful to marine life. At the
